"Several years ago, my daughter broke out with large sores on her hands, face, and other parts of her body. The case puzzled the doctors. My daughter used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it resulted in a complete cure. Her blood seems to have been thoroughly purified, as she has never had so much as a pimple since taking this medicine."

"This is to certify that after having been sick for twelve years with kidney disease and general debility, and having been treated by several physicians with-out relief, I am now better in every respect, and think I am nearly well, having taken seven bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla "-Maria Ludwigson, Albert Lea, Minn.

According to a writer from London to The Book Buyer, what is called ladies' literature is becoming the most lucrative of journalistic speculations. Some of the proprietors of ladies' newspapers have made large fortunes. This speaks well for the fair sex. If, as is occasionally asserted by pessimistic observers, their favorite literature is the worthless novel, how can they find time to read the closely filled columns of the many ladies' journals that are published here and in England? If magazines devoted to the care of house and children continue to succeed and to increase in number, it is safe to say that the worthless novel is not doing much harm.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

The latest anecdote about the incompetence of the professed cook is that a cook recently engaged, with a number of testimonials of efficiency, was told by her mistress the day after her arrival to boil half a dozen eggs for breakfast. "And here," said the mistress, as she left the kitchen, "is the sand glass, which has always been used for boiling eggs in this house." A quarter of an hour later the mistress, chancing to enter the kitchen, saw the six eggs boiling away merrily in the tin saucepan and the sand glass bobbing about in the middle of them as merrily as could be. -Exchange.
